

QUARANTINE REQUIREMENTS FOR THE IMPORTATION OF ANIMAL PRODUCTS INTO FIJI

All imports of animals and animal products into Fiji must be accompanied by an Import Permit issued by the office of the Director of Animal Health and Production. An application form (attached) must be filled initially and lodged with the Director. The application is then assessed, and if it is approved, an Import Permit will be issued. The terms and conditions of importation are wither outlined in the Import Permit or attached to the Permit. If, however, the application is rejected, the applicant will be informed of this decision.

Applications to import animals and animal products take between a week to ten days to process.

The term "animal product" refers to:-

- fresh/chilled/frozen/preserved meat and poultry
- processed meat/poultry e.g sausages
- noodles containing albumen and/or natural meat/poultry flavours
  - natural beef base/stock, etc
  - canned meat/poultry
  - dairy products (milk, cheese, yoghurt, butter, whey, etc.)
  - semen
  - hides
  - feathers
  - natural bristles
  - eggs (including albumen)
  - embryos/ova
  - animal feeds e.g meat and bone meal
  - biologicals
  - and all other products of animal origin

Import Permits are required for all imports that contain any animal product, regardless of whether they are for human, animal, industrial, or biological use.

Consignments of animals or animal products exported to Fiji without an Import Permit and veterinary certification will be either re-shipped out of Fiji or destroyed at the importers' expense.
